* This young gentleman's name was omitted from his own declaration during the poll, that he had no vote; but on re-examining the books, he was found, during the election, to have discovered a freehold upon some Sands, thrown up at the ever-memorable flood, when Newcastle and Ridley-hall bridges fell. This, 'tis supposed, his father had given him to make a garden of, or plant willows upon:—a method of pleasing children frequently practised by parents, to encourage industry and cherish rising genius. His brother voted for Henry's Island,—a freehold of the same kind.

The Number polled for each Candidate in the different Wards.

Erratum—P. 20, Harvy Francis, read Hurry Francis.—From the great hurry of copying the Poll-book, and the many mistakes of the clerks &c. a few errors in printing are unavoidable:—but the editors flatter themselves it will be found as perfect as the nature of such a publication will admit in any hands.
